SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At all hazards cars will be operated throughout San Francisco tomorrow. The arteries of the union-strangled city will again pulsate with life, and weary humanity, dragged from the street cars one week ago by the villainous hands of unionism, will now ride and regain its breath.
Once started, no violence or treacherous plotting of strikers can again tie up the system. There may be delays; there may be bloodshed, but the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America will be beaten, and a victory that establishes a precedent will have been won for the freedom of San Francisco.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All car barns of the United Railroads in which strikebreakers were housed were surrounded today and tonight by howling mobs of striking carmen and their sympathizers. Five thousand is a conservative estimate of the number of men who gathered for the purpose of liberating the rebuilding of a new and better San Francisco. His courage and masterful action has aroused a volume of applause that will be heard for days to come. New hope has come to the people, the tide has turned, and citizens are standing shoulder to shoulder for industrial freedom.
It is time that employer to assert his independence and ignore the union. And it had better be done today than tomorrow.
WOULD HAVE STATE AROUSE.
"I want to see the whole State of California rise up and stand for this principle of industrial freedom. I want to see San Francisco cast off all hands that would strangle her liberty. This must be a city where all honest men may find work, else it cannot be a true American city. If the people will not rise and demand this now, they may never hope to attain it. The city's future depends upon this issue. It is better to suffer a great deal for a short time than to suffer a great deal for a long time. It would better be today than tomorrow.
"In proving faithless, the Carman's Union injured itself more than anybody else. In striking, they were not aiming a blow at an enemy, but at a friend—a friend, however, let them understand, who is an adherent of public liberty, and who will stand unalterably for that principle.
"Right must win in this fight. These men have grown so arrogant through the recognition of their union that they ruthlessly violated a solemn contract with the United Railroads and insultingly refused to wait even one day to treat with me. They struck when the city was sore pressed, and when, in their cruelty, they thought they had all men at their mercy.
"I dealt with this union and recognized it because its members were my employees and because I am willing to put my men on an equal footing with myself, in the belief that to treat with them as men and as an organization is to better educate them and to create a stronger interest among them in the business.
"Never let them think," said Calhoun, "that I dealt with them from weakness or through fear. I dealt with them to be fair with them, and I have been, never, in the slightest degree, having violated the contract between us. I have suffered, and all San Francisco has suffered, as a result of their outrageous acts. Now I am fighting for San Francisco and for the whole State, fighting for the right of industrial freedom that these men have attempted to trample under foot.
"I say that in striking, the union struck a blow at every citizen in San Francisco. In striking me, they struck a true friend, but one who must stand for the principles on which a free government is based. These cars shall run. It is my duty to see that they are operated, and operated they will be.
"I hope the strikers will not interfere with me, but if they do, the cars will be operated in spite of them."
VIOLATED ITS CONTRACT.
So far, the Carman's Union has been guilty of gross violation of its solemn contract and has repudiated its obligation, which rested upon its good faith. If they interfere with the operation of the cars or destroy property, they will only blacken their character by crime.

GOLDFIELD, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] These are the salient points of the fight: Attendance, men, 5000; women, 200; Gans in lead nearly all the way, gaining popular decision on Nelson's deliberate foul in forty-second round; Nelson's milling throughout the contest was unfair and rowdyish; endurance of both men highly remarkable; Referee Siler's work pleases spectators; Gans cheered and Nelson hissed as fight ends; President Roosevelt's son a spectator; Gans becomes hero of Goldfield because of his clean work and superior science; fight as a whole was one of the longest, most exciting, and stubbornly-contested affairs ever known in the annals of pugilism.
GOLDFIELD, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After forty-two rounds of brutal and bloody slugging, little Bat Nelson lost the championship tamely to Gans. His green silk trunks were enough to make a spider web seem like a winter overcoat. When Gans came out in his trunks, clothes off. BATTLESHIPS REVIEWED YESTERDAY BY THE PRESIDENT AMID GREAT NAVAL POMP

PRESIDENT REVIEWS SPLENDID FLEET.
In Brilliant Sunshine, to Thunder of Great Guns, the Mayflower Passes Evans's Gallant Warships in a Never-to-Be-Forgotten Spectacle.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Roosevelt luck!" That was the general exclamation here today, when the great naval review off Oyster Bay came off in good weather.
The morning dawned with every sign that the weather would cause the review to be postponed. The time of the review had been set for 11 o'clock, and as the forenoon wore on, the thickness, which had blurred all objects on the Sound, was increased by a strong, slanting rain, behind which the ships of the great white fleet vanished as one extinguishes a reflection in a mirror by breathing on the glass.
That was a few minutes before 11 o'clock. Then, suddenly, like a slit veil, the gray clouds were torn apart, and through the widening field of blue came a burst of brilliant sunshine, in which the long lines of the masted squadron showed clear as silhouettes, the sunshine giving a touch of gayety and grace to the gloomy splendor of the battleships, even the sinister-looking destroyers catching a bit of beauty from the sparkling light.
"Roosevelt luck!" the people cried, and in a few minutes more the great guns were booming out. The Mayflower, at anchor off Oyster Bay and in full view of the fleet, lost no time in getting her anchor up, and immediately it was seen that the President was under way, a roll of smoke steamed from the starboard side of the battleship Maine, flagship of Rear Admiral Evans. Almost with a flash of the gun came the bang of two score others, and for two minutes the fleet was wreathed about with smoke, pierced with the flash of guns and reverberant with the noise of the explosion.
Then the Missouri took up the refrain, and so on down the long line.
THREE LONG COLUMNS.
Three long columns lay with their heads just a mile west of the extreme point of Lloyd's Neck and three miles directly north of Sagamore Hill, through the harbor entrance of Oyster Bay. With intervals between columns and ships of 450 yards, they stretched along the Sound toward New York for more than two miles. The fleet consisted of three squadrons, or two divisions, two torpedo-boat flotillas, submarines, a troopship and five auxiliaries.
MAINE HEADS THE LIST.
The center column represented the heavier vessels and the fighting capability of the fleet. This column was headed by the Maine, the flagship of Admiral Evans. Directly astern was the sister ship Missouri, 12,500 tons; then the two 11,120-ton battleships Kentucky and Kearsarge, then the 16,000-ton Louisiana, just completed, which the Navy fondly calls the "most modern battleship," succeeded by the 14,400-ton Rhode Island, New Jersey and Virginia. The column was completed by the four monitors, Puritan, Nevada, Florida and Arkansas.
It was the greatest fleet of fighting ships ever assembled under the American flag. The forty-five vessels were all within range of Sagamore Hill, and could train 1175 guns on the summer residence of the President. Indeed, they roared out to him a tremendous salute as he came among them on his flagship, the Mayflower.

SHATTERED CITY'S PEACE.
Like hungry wolves, with yelps and snarls, the union ravers of the day shattered the peace of the city, endeavoring to terrorize the 100 men barricaded within the improvised forts. Rocks and brickbats struck about the casing of the windows of the barn from time to time, threatening at any minute to crash through the panes of glass. Beds were moved to points of safety out of the range of missiles that might find their way inside the building, and the men made unsuccessful attempts to get much-needed sleep.
The increased warlike attitude of the strikers came with a report circulated through their ranks that the United Railroads would attempt to run cars tomorrow morning.
About 10 o'clock a fight ensued between the strike-breakers and some of the guards, who were forcibly trying to prevent a man's departure. The crowd suddenly became threatening and stones began to fly.
In answer to a call for reinforcements by the police on duty at the carhouse, Corporal Shanahan and ten bluecoats were taken from the escort of the labor parade and hurried to the scene.
Many women in the mob were scarcely less active than the men and boys.
A committee of the striking carmen counseled against violence and assisted the police in suppressing disorder.
A funeral procession came in sight; the noise ceased suddenly, and the disorderly throng respectfully made a lane for the procession, and remained quiet and peaceable until it had passed.
Similar scenes on a smaller scale were enacted at other barns where strike-breakers were housed.
CALHOUN'S DARE.
Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, is the one man in this city who has dared to thrust aside the clutching hand of unionism that has throttled industry and re-

Gans Becomes Hero of Mining Town by Fast Work.

The great crowd that stood for over three hours on the Broadway side of The Times building reading the fight bulletins, shook the ground with its demonstration when the result was flashed in. The throng melted away in two minutes after the battle was over.

GANS WINS ON FOUL.

ity to make such a claim. All Nelson would say was that Gans was tired and quit.

Gans in many ways put up a remarkable battle. Of course, his skill as a boxer was expected to be shown, but his endurance surprised every one. His work was the more wonderful when it is known that in the thirty-third round he broke his right hand. Never after that did he strike a blow with it with the exception of a few short-term jabs while clinching. He did all his work with his left hand, and put it all over Nelson.

GANS BREAKS HIS HAND.

Gans' generalship was shown when he broke his hand. In the thirty-third round he landed a hard right-hand punch on the side of Nelson's face. A bone in the hand snapped, and Gans stepped back with an expression of pain. He limped around as if he had stepped on his foot or turned it, and no one realized that he had badly injured his right hand, although it was suspected that it might have been injured.

Gans stated after the fight that Nelson intentionally fouled him. He said he knew he could finish Nelson, as he was comparatively strong, and Nelson was growing weaker all the time. "Larry" Sullivan announced for Gans that he would meet Nelson in two weeks in another fight, as he did not want to take advantage of the foul. It is hardly probable, however, that the men will meet again in that time. Gans explained his course of battle by saying he did not want to box Nelson for fear of tiring himself. He found early in the game that he could protect himself in the clinches, and also realized that the exertion in fighting that way was much less than if he stood back and did some showy boxing. He was hitting Nelson all the time and maneuvering so as to make the Dane do most of the work.

DANE IS DURABLE, SURE.

The first fifteen rounds of the fight were very fast. After that the men slowed up, and only at intervals was there a rally. Although Gans was far ahead of Nelson in points and most of the time looked like a sure winner, Nelson put up a wonderful fight on his side.

The endurance and recuperative power shown by Nelson was extraordinary. Time after time Gans would hit him on the jaw, sending the Dane back. His knees would bend, and he would stagger, but he always fell into a clinch and held on, and then would come back fighting as hard as ever in his peculiar round style. The minute's rest in the corner always did him good, and he would come up fresh and strong.

On nearly half a dozen occasions when it seemed another blow would put the white boy out, the going rang and saved him. On several occasions, however, Nelson apparently had the advantage. He would hit Gans as they broke from a clinch, and the colored boxer would hang on and wrestle.

GANS FIGHTS FAIRLY.

Gans fought a remarkably clean fight. He was fair in everything, and twice, when he knocked Nelson down, he picked him up. One time when one of Gans' punches knocked Nelson through the ropes, Gans picked him up and helped him to his feet. As the colored boy stood with his hands down waiting for Nelson to steady himself, the latter gave him a vicious blow in the stomach, and was roundly blamed for this by the big crowd.

Although Goldfield is a mining camp, it is seldom that a more orderly crowd ever attended such a contest. There was no disturbance of any kind, and no rough language used.

Gans was undoubtedly the favorite with the people. He gentlemanly behavior won the admiration of the Goldfield people. They showed it. Gans is a hero in Goldfield tonight.

The attendance was about 5000, although estimates were made as high as 6000. The Goldfield Athletic Club arrangements were perfect. There was not a hitch of any kind, and the fight could be seen from any portion of the arena. About 200 women were in attendance.

DETAILED STORY OF LONG FIGHT.

EVERY BLOW SHOWN IN ROUND BY ROUND NARRATIVE.

Gans Holds Lead in Greater Part of Contest and at Finish Is Much Stronger Than the Battler—Fourteenth Marked by Reprehensible Work of Dane.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.)

GOLDFIELD, Sept. 2.—Here is the fight by rounds:

First round—Gans led off with two light lefts to the face, and they clinched. Nelson received a right on the body and Gans quickly shot right and left to the face. He followed it with a right to the face, and Nelson missed three left and right swings for the jaw. Gans in a clinch shot his right to the face and outboxed his man at every point of the game. Gans jarred Nelson with two rights to the jaw, and followed it with a left to the face. After breaking from a clinch, Nelson walked right hand to the jaw and followed with a left to the same place. Gans then peppered Nelson's face with trip-hammer rights and lefts to the face and jaw, and kept this up until the going rang. Gans went to his corner with a big lead. Blood flowed from Nelson's ears as he went to his seat.

Second round—Gans uppercut twice with right and then jarred Nelson with two punches to the jaw. He followed with a straight right to the jaw. Nelson seemed impervious to punishment and came in all the time. Gans measured his distance, and time and again shot his short-arm rights to the jaw. The two went to close quarters, and Gans uppercut Nelson twice to the jaw at close quarters. He chopped Nelson again with a left right. Nelson fought Gans to a clinch and landed a terrific right to the face. In a mix-up, Gans rocked Nelson's stomach with two wicked right punches to the face, and followed it with a short-arm right to the ear. As the going rang Gans had a good lead and outboxed and outgeneraled his man throughout.

Third round—Nelson tried to get in close and Gans whipped his right to the ear at close quarters. Gans uppercut twice with right to chin and left to the jaw. Nelson came right into a clinch and held on, and then would come back fighting as hard as ever in his peculiar round style. The minute's rest in the corner always did him good, and he would come up fresh and strong.

On nearly half a dozen occasions when it seemed another blow would put the white boy out, the going rang and saved him. On several occasions, however, Nelson apparently had the advantage. He would hit Gans as they broke from a clinch, and the colored boxer would hang on and wrestle.

pushed in this round. Betting now 2 to 1 in favor of Gans.

Sixth round—Nelson rushed, but Gans smashed his face three times with his left hand. Nelson tried to attempt to land. Nelson bored in, forcing Gans to the ropes. The crowd objected to Nelson's boring tactics and play with his head against Gans. After breaking from a clinch, Gans planted a right to the jaw and followed it with a right drive to the face, sending the blood from Nelson's mouth in a stream. Gans sent Nelson's head back, hammering his man almost to the ropes. Nelson fought all the punishment, but could not locate his shiny antagonist. Nelson was in bad shape when he took his chair. His face was red and swollen. Gans has a big lead and looks like a sure winner unless Nelson should get in a chance blow.

Seventh round—As usual, Nelson forced Gans about the ring. Gans contenting himself to watch for an opening. Gans peeked away at the face with right and left blows. Nelson missed two right swings and Gans met Nelson with a fusillade of right and left punches to the face that staggered the Dane. Gans received a right punch in the body as the men worked in close quarters. Gans swung his right twice to the face, and Nelson swung back wildly. Gans neatly ducked two right swings again, and kept up a left with fearful force. Nelson's bell rang, and Nelson again went to his corner with blood streaming from his mouth and nose. In spite of the long-distance work, he did not break ground at any time.

Ninth round—They stood shoulder to shoulder in the center of the ring. Gans walked the Dane with right and left to the face. Nelson tried desperately to work in two hard right punches to the jaw. Nelson received two short-arm rights to the jaw. At close quarters Nelson swung left twice to Gans' jaw, and a moment later swung right to the same place. They mixed it for a while, Gans landing four punches to the stomach and Nelson swinging back with rapid-fire rights and lefts to the jaw. Nelson swung his right hand to the side of the head. Nelson's mouth as the bell rang. It was Gans's round.

Tenth round—Gans met Nelson's rush with a straight left to the face, and with him, don't let me get away. "It was the injunction from the Battler's corner. They went in close and Gans smothered Nelson with two rights and a succession of lefts to the face. Nelson bored in and whipped his right and left to the negro's jaw. Nelson then brought blood from Gans' mouth in a stream with a succession of lefts and rights to that member. A terrific struggle took place at close quarters. The arena resembled a shambles. Both men fought at a fearful pace and Nelson landed the best of it. Both men bled copiously. The bell rang with Nelson having a shade the better of a most vicious round. Gans looked a bit worried as he was being worked on by his hands.

Eleventh round—They closed in with Gans fighting hard. Gans requested a referee to stop the fight. Nelson apparently realized that his only chance was to fight break to break. Nelson started with a straight right to the face, but Gans retaliated with two stinging rights to the face. They wrestled about the ring, and Gans drove Nelson's mouth with two right smashes to the face. Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away, and at the end of the round Gans got in a good right punch to the Dane's face. The men did not hear the going ring, and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round, with no advantage.

Nineteenth round—Siler warned Nelson once more for butting, and laid his hand on Nelson's head twice as a reminder that the Dane should cut out this kind of work. Nelson continued to butt, and Siler again pulled Nelson from his reclining position. The men remained in a locked position, Gans resisting and Nelson wrestling. Finally Gans sent Nelson back with right and left jolts to the center of the ring and Gans sent two right swings to the face. Nelson tried to wrestle Gans to the ropes, and Gans, like a reluctant warrior, drove Nelson back with several fearful ones to the jaw, the first of which sent Nelson staggering half through the ropes. The bell clanged a welcome sound to the Dane as he went to his corner. Gans's round.

Twentieth round—Nelson rushed close apparently strong as ever. He followed Gans about but failed to land on the negro. Nelson's recuperative powers being the better of the men wrestled in the center of the ring and exchanged right swings to the jaw. Gans then cut loose again and mercilessly peppered Nelson's face and jaw with right and left. The Dane merely shook his head and wrestled Gans to the ropes. Gans tested Nelson's jaw with a succession of energy trying to land swings. Gans was against the rope as the bell sounded. Gans's round.

Twenty-first round—Nelson fell against each other and Siler again warned Nelson to cease fighting with his head. They then locked head and fought at close quarters. Nelson swung all the work, but not landing. Gans then put in two right uppercuts and stalled and rested apparently without a blow being struck. They staled and both appeared to be tired. In the mix-up, Nelson's face and then sent Nelson's head back with a straight left to the face. The men were locked in a struggle, and the crowd went to its feet in a storm of protest. Some one started three cheers for the negro which drew forth a rousing response.

Twenty-second round—Gans sent a straight left to the face and Nelson clinched and Siler warned constantly about butting of Nelson. Gans then crossed with his right to the jaw. Then Nelson drove his left twice to the eyes, after the colored lad had put two rights to the face. At close quarters Nelson put two good rights over the negro's head, and Nelson swung a right course of wrestling. They broke away and Nelson staggered Gans with a succession of hard left swings to the jaw and several hard rights to the jaw. Gans did not respond, and Nelson sent the crowd into a frenzy by driving his right to the jaw with a right hook to the body. The crowd rose to its feet at the end of the round and yelled "Nelson, Nelson." It was the Dane's round. Nelson rushed in with a straight right to the face, and Nelson swung two lefts to the negro's face. Siler again warned Nelson about butting, and they again bent down, fighting shoulder to shoulder. Nelson's mouth with two right smashes to the face. Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away, and at the end of the round Gans got in a good right punch to the Dane's face. The men did not hear the going ring, and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round, with no advantage.

Twentieth round—Nelson rushed close apparently strong as ever. He followed Gans about but failed to land on the negro. Nelson's recuperative powers being the better of the men wrestled in the center of the ring and exchanged right swings to the jaw. Gans then cut loose again and mercilessly peppered Nelson's face and jaw with right and left. The Dane merely shook his head and wrestled Gans to the ropes. Gans tested Nelson's jaw with a succession of energy trying to land swings. Gans was against the rope as the bell sounded. Gans's round.

Gans tested Nelson's jaw with a succession of energy trying to land swings. Gans was against the rope as the bell sounded. Gans's round.

Twenty-second round—Gans sent a straight left to the face and Nelson clinched and Siler warned constantly about butting of Nelson. Gans then crossed with his right to the jaw. Then Nelson drove his left twice to the eyes, after the colored lad had put two rights to the face. At close quarters Nelson put two good rights over the negro's head, and Nelson swung a right course of wrestling. They broke away and Nelson staggered Gans with a succession of hard left swings to the jaw and several hard rights to the jaw. Gans did not respond, and Nelson sent the crowd into a frenzy by driving his right to the jaw with a right hook to the body. The crowd rose to its feet at the end of the round and yelled "Nelson, Nelson." It was the Dane's round. Nelson rushed in with a straight right to the face, and Nelson swung two lefts to the negro's face. Siler again warned Nelson about butting, and they again bent down, fighting shoulder to shoulder. Nelson's mouth with two right smashes to the face. Nelson nearly went to the floor as Gans backed away, and at the end of the round Gans got in a good right punch to the Dane's face. The men did not hear the going ring, and were pulled to their seats by their seconds. It was a tame round, with no advantage.

Nineteenth round—Siler warned Nelson once more for butting, and laid his hand on Nelson's head twice as a reminder that the Dane should cut out this kind of work. Nelson continued to butt, and Siler again pulled Nelson from his reclining position. The men remained in a locked position, Gans resisting and Nelson wrestling. Finally Gans sent Nelson back with right and left jolts to the center of the ring and Gans sent two right swings to the face. Nelson tried to wrestle Gans to the ropes, and Gans, like a reluctant warrior, drove Nelson back with several fearful ones to the jaw, the first of which sent Nelson staggering half through the ropes. The bell clanged a welcome sound to the Dane as he went to his corner. Gans's round.

the fighters boxed and Gans landed a left swing over the mouth and followed it with three straight lefts to the face. Then followed the inevitable clinch, emerging from which Nelson uppercut Gans on the jaw with left. Both men appeared tired at this stage of the contest. It was hard to predict the winner at this time.

Twenty-seventh round—Gans sparred while Nelson wasted his vitality with useless swings. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and the latter, working himself free, sent his left to Nelson's mouth. Nelson missed a hard left swing and in a mix Joe put in two light rights to the face. Nelson, like a reluctant warrior, drove Nelson back with several fearful ones to the jaw, the first of which sent Nelson staggering half through the ropes. The bell clanged a welcome sound to the Dane as he went to his corner. Gans's round.

Twenty-eighth round—Gans jabbed Nelson on the nose with left and Nelson butted the colored man with his head. Nelson then put left and right to the jaw and shortly afterward swung his left to the jaw and right to the face. Then they closed in and Nelson drove Joe to the ropes with a left hook to the face. The men wrestled in the center of the ring and Gans sent two right swings to the face. Nelson tried to wrestle Gans to the ropes, and Gans, like a reluctant warrior, drove Nelson back with several fearful ones to the jaw, the first of which sent Nelson staggering half through the ropes. The bell clanged a welcome sound to the Dane as he went to his corner. Gans's round.

Twenty-ninth round—Nelson rushed close apparently strong as ever. He followed Gans about but failed to land on the negro. Nelson's recuperative powers being the better of the men wrestled in the center of the ring and exchanged right swings to the jaw. Gans then cut loose again and mercilessly peppered Nelson's face and jaw with right and left. The Dane merely shook his head and wrestled Gans to the ropes. Gans tested Nelson's jaw with a succession of energy trying to land swings. Gans was against the rope as the bell sounded. Gans's round.

Thirtieth round—Nelson fell against each other and Siler again warned Nelson to cease fighting with his head. They then locked head and fought at close quarters. Nelson swung all the work, but not landing. Gans then put in two right uppercuts and stalled and rested apparently without a blow being struck. They staled and both appeared to be tired. In the mix-up, Nelson's face and then sent Nelson's head back with a straight left to the face. The men were locked in a struggle, and the crowd went to its feet in a storm of protest. Some one started three cheers for the negro which drew forth a rousing response.

Thirty-first round—Gans cleverly blocked Nelson's attempts to land wild swing and again resting, permitting the younger man to do all the work, again Siler told Nelson to quit using his head, and they went to close quarters, wrestling and stalling. The men put in the fully busy round without a blow being struck. They staled and both appeared to be tired. In the mix-up, Nelson's face and then sent Nelson's head back with a straight left to the face. The men were locked in a struggle, and the crowd went to its feet in a storm of protest. Some one started three cheers for the negro which drew forth a rousing response.

Thirty-second round—Gans danced away from the Dane's leads and as usual, they closed in, mostly on Nelson's initiative. Siler again and again spoke to Nelson, warning him to quit on the negro's chin. Again came the almost interminable clinching and wrestling. Finally Nelson swung a hard right to the jaw and quit. Gans followed it with a left swing to the same place. Nelson's left eye badly swollen and he was almost blind. Nelson back with two straight lefts and three rights to Nelson's sore eye. Gans caught Nelson a terrific blow on the forehead with his right, and then sent in a dashing left to the face. Again the going rang and Nelson sent Nelson back from almost sure defeat. Nelson's corner did not look very cheerful as he took his seat.

Thirty-third round—They closed in Nelson butting with his head. Gans peppered Nelson's face to a jelly with terrific right swings. Nelson's left eye was entirely closed. Nelson punched Gans to the ropes and they fought at close range. Gans wrestling and saving his strength. Nelson bled profusely as the men worked to the center of the ring, and was a sight to behold. Gans rested again as Nelson bored in and partly wrestled and stalled. Gans sent Nelson back again with a right to the jaw. Nelson back with a right to the jaw. Both men were weary of the going rang. Nelson for the first time showed great weariness. Gans's round. It was claimed that Gans turned his foot in this round and that it would seriously incapacitate him for the remainder of the fight. Gans wrestled and stalled in the center of the ring, both seeming content to rest up. This, though, continued, Nelson landed a blow. It was a wrestle, stall, wrestle and stall again. Nelson forced Gans to the ropes and received right and left swings on the head. Nelson worked in two short arm lefts to the stomach and both men wrestled. Gans nearly putting Nelson through the ropes. Nelson appeared very tired. Joe Gans was the fresher of the two as the going terminated the wrestling match.

Thirty-fourth round—The men wrestled and stalled in the center of the ring, both seeming content to rest up. This, though, continued, Nelson landed a blow. It was a wrestle, stall, wrestle and stall again. Nelson forced Gans to the ropes and received right and left swings on the head. Nelson worked in two short arm lefts to the stomach and both men wrestled. Gans nearly putting Nelson through the ropes. Nelson appeared very tired. Joe Gans was the fresher of the two as the going terminated the wrestling match.

Thirty-fifth round—The sun is going down. It's the same old story, wrestle, stall and wrestle without a blow being struck. The men were weary of the going rang. Nelson for the first time showed great weariness. Gans's round. It was claimed that Gans turned his foot in this round and that it would seriously incapacitate him for the remainder of the fight. Gans wrestled and stalled in the center of the ring, both seeming content to rest up. This, though, continued, Nelson landed a blow. It was a wrestle, stall, wrestle and stall again. Gans nearly putting Nelson through the ropes. Nelson appeared very tired. Joe Gans was the fresher of the two as the going terminated the wrestling match.

Thirty-sixth round—Nelson forced Gans to the ropes, but could not penetrate Gans's marvelous defense while in dangerous positions. They wrestled about the ring. Gans resting up. Nelson landed a hard right swing to the head, but two left swings for the same place went a-glimmering. Then

BIG NAVAL REVIEW.

More than fifteen thousand jacks and officers manned the fleet. SECRETARY DONAPARTE. Half an hour before the arrival of the President, Secretary of the Navy Donaparte boarded the Mayflower and was received with a salute by the Marine Guards and the ruffle of drums. Following him came Postmaster-General Cortright, who was also honored in the same manner.

FURSION NAVAL ATTACHE. The naval attachés representing foreign governments came on board the Mayflower and were transferred to the Mayflower in launches.

Members of the naval committee of Congress were also taken on board the Mayflower.

THE PRESIDENT. Boarding the Mayflower at 10:30 a.m., the President reached the head of the column half an hour later.

When the Mayflower came within sight of the President, the fleet, a tremendous salute of twenty-one guns in honor of the President, was fired. Then, when the Mayflower was close to the stern of the fleet, in her own salute, she fired twenty-one guns, every ship in the fleet.

The Mayflower then swung around the stern of the fleet, and the fleet, in its own salute, fired twenty-one guns. The Mayflower then swung around the stern of the fleet, and the fleet, in its own salute, fired twenty-one guns.

FIRST ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE BRYAN RECEPTION.

Bryan's first speech in New York bay

BRYAN FEARS HEART.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charges freely are made by Bryan's friends that he is secretly in the hands of the Bryan family, and that he is a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

While masquerading as a friend of Bryan, the Independence League movement really is designed to undermine the Bryan family, and advance Bryan's candidacy.

The Bryan family are working everywhere with their eyes for the purpose of securing the Bryan family, and advancing Bryan's candidacy.

Moran almost committed an "unpardonable sin" in offering to submit a choice for candidates to Bryan. Jerome has rejected all advances.

Bryan's friends are alarmed, and that is the reason Bryan has cancelled his trip to Australia.

Drums rolled and most of the packed house rose to its feet cheering as Bryan ascended the platform tonight. Bryan was unable to make his address for a few moments, owing to the prolonged cheering.

While the Republicans have repudiated the platform on which he was elected and adopted a Democratic platform, I challenge you to find one based on anything other than a Democratic platform in a Democratic platform.

As in prior speeches, Bryan pointed out that the President had a compromise rate bill passed, the original rate bill having been found, not in the Democratic platform, but in the Republican platform.

Therefore there is a general disposition not to agree with the stand taken by President Palma that the government should not treat with the insurgents upon the basis of arranging a compromise, and President Palma is understood to already have modified his attitude to the extent that he has no objections to private negotiations on the subject.

War preparations in Havana are increasing. A machine gun corps has left Castillo de la Punta, and four companies are stationed at La Puerta Castle, in front of the palace, two at the arsenal and one at Vedado shore fort. The men are not drilled or disciplined.

El Economista, the leading financial newspaper, says that the revolution, besides costing millions of dollars to industries which are operating on foreign capital, will, should it last for several weeks, cause ruin to the Vuelta Abajo tobacco crop.

The paper says that the loss to the Cuban tobacco crop, should it last for several weeks, would amount to $20,000,000. Concerning the sugar crop, it says that a continuation of the trouble for two months will mean a loss of from 100,000 to 200,000 tons on account of the lack of labor.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports of a three-day fight in which the government forces killed more than a hundred insurgents and wounded many were received today by M. C. Aldama, who represents the Cuban government in this country and who has opened headquarters in the Hotel Imperial for the dissemination of news of the revolution.

The fighting occurred between Matanzas and Havana.

WASHINGTON BREVIES. SEATTLE, Sept. 3.—The cruiser Boston went aground on Orcas Island in the San Juan group in a fog today, and was pulled off at high tide, and apparently is uninjured. The Boston is a protected cruiser of 3000 tons and is commanded by Capt. Dewitt Coffman. She is attached to the Pacific station, of which Rear Admiral Swinburn is commander-in-chief.

SLAUGHTER AT FUNERAL. WARSAW, Sept. 3.—The display of a red flag at Rudakowski's funeral today at the funeral home of a workman killed by Cosacks led to fighting between Cosacks and the workmen and others taking part in the procession, during which the troops fired a volley, killing six and wounding twenty-two.

ARREST UNION DISTURBER. Harry White, a union barber living at Seventh and San Pedro streets, and Jack Jodine, an ice-cream vendor, were arrested by officers at the Chutes Park last evening on the charge of disturbing the peace. According to the police, the two men were taunting women and when warned to cease their obnoxious conduct, they laughed at the police. After continuing their acts the police were forced to arrest them.

STRONG NON-UNION ARM. A union bartender entered the Belmont bar at No. 464 South Main street last evening about 11 o'clock and, after ordering a drink, began to insult the non-union bartender, who was mixing the liquor. At last the union ruffian struck at the bartender, but when he came to he was lying out into the street. The cowardly unionite threatened to kill the man, who had ejected him, but when a patron of the place walked through the door the unionite was seen to run.

DEMOCRATS SHOW GAINS. LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) Sept. 3.—In the biennial election in Arkansas for state and county officers, partial returns received tonight indicate that the Democrats have made gains. Of the 13 members of the Senate and House, at least 125 will be Democrats. The Democratic State nominees for a drive around the city. The meeting at the Armory began at 7:45 p.m.

FIGHT RECEIPTS BREAK ALL RECORDS OF RING.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

GOLDFIELD, Sept. 3.—It was announced tonight that the receipts of the moving pictures became exhausted after the thirty-eighth round. As a result, the concluding rounds of today's contest will not be shown in this picture.

President Richard stated tonight that the receipts for the fight amounted approximately to $10,000. This is the greatest amount of money taken in for a prize fight in the history of the ring.

Nelson was seen tonight, but he was in bad shape and would not talk. His left eye was entirely closed and his face badly marked up. Most of the special trains left Goldfield late tonight for home.

One of Nelson's seconds stated tonight that Nelson was dizzy when he was called for the forty-second round, and this may have had something to do with the fouling of Gans.

CUBAN PROSPECT OF PEACE IS BRIGHTER.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

HAVANA, Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It looks a little brighter tonight for the government. There is no deciding factor on which to base this statement, but a seeming general change in the conditions today makes in favor of the government.

In consequence the officials are in a happier state of mind than they have been for weeks, and they expect great things within a few days.

Peace through political compromise is the sole topic of conversation today in all the best-informed circles, where it is recognized that this is the only way of bringing about a settlement of the Cuban internal troubles.

Therefore there is a general disposition not to agree with the stand taken by President Palma that the government should not treat with the insurgents upon the basis of arranging a compromise, and President Palma is understood to already have modified his attitude to the extent that he has no objections to private negotiations on the subject.

What Joy They Bring To Every Home

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome California blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

ing struck. Gans finally ripped in a straight left to the jaw and again they rested, heads against each other's shoulders. Nelson at close quarters worked two left short-arm blows to the face and the bell closed a very slow and tiresome round.

Thirty-sixth round—Both sparred and then Gans started something with a straight right to the face against the wrestling. Nelson missed a forceful uppercut intended for the jaw and for a brief moment it looked as if the men were going to fight, but such was not the case. Gans cleverly ducked a right swing and then ran into a right hook over the stomach. Nelson hooked a left to the stomach and at close quarters got his right lightly to the jaw. Nelson pushed Gans against the ropes and Gans just did step out of the way of a right uppercut.

Thirty-seventh round—Nelson was too slow in getting back with his head. Gans vigorously objected to Referee Siler against this style of scrapping. The men went again to the wrestling and Nelson was made to a left for the jaw that missed its mark three feet. They leaned up against each other and little attempt to strike was made. Then Gans whipped a powerful left to the wind and they clinched. Both men were careful. Gans woke up the crowd catching Nelson at long range and putting in several straight lefts to the face. Then came the bell and a rest.

Thirty-eighth round—Nelson rushed in and Gans backed up quickly trying to keep the Dane at distance and force him to spar at long range. Gans complained bitterly about Nelson resting his head on his (Gans') neck and shoulders. Nelson swung a left to the jaw and after a clinch Gans put in two rights to the face. Both men were leg weary and tired and clinched as much as they could. It was next to impossible to get the fight started.

Thirty-ninth round—Gans jabbed his left twice to the face before Nelson could get to close quarters. Then followed a series of straight lefts to the jaw and Gans came back with a right to the jaw. Nelson's left eye closed entirely now. He appeared to be tiring rapidly.

Fortieth round—They started in at a lively pace. Gans landing his left to the ear. Then they stopped. In a clinch Gans drove a left to the jaw and Nelson retaliated with left uppercut to the chin. The men did very little fighting. Gans got Nelson at arm's length and took advantage of this concession by sending his left twice to the Dane's sore face. Gans complained again about Nelson's head and sent Nelson's head back with a right to the jaw. End round and clinches.

Forty-first round—They came up slowly and clinched. Gans asked Billy Nelson facetiously: "What time is it?" Then they resumed the clinching contest. Gans shot a straight right to the mouth and Nelson rebuked the question by sending his left to the face and the men ceased fighting entirely. Suddenly Nelson landed a hard left hook to the jaw and Gans fought him away, landing two lefts to the face and a right on the body. Both men wrestled wearily about the ring and it was hard to tell which was the more tired of the two as the men went to their corners.

Forty-second round—Gans started the round with a straight left to the face and they clinched. As the men broke from a clinch, Nelson deliberately struck Gans low and the colored man slowly sank to the floor. The blow was clearly observed by everyone in the arena and there was not a murmur of dissent from the spectators as the long-drawn-out battle was terminated.

NEWS HUNGRY GIVEN PLENTY.

THOUSANDS GATHER ON STREET FOR THE BULLETINS.

Eager Mass Packs Broadway and Stands for Hours Reading "The Times" Reports from the Ringside. Never Such Interest in Los Angeles in a Sporting Event.

Cold dinners were eaten with relish by many hundreds of business men who remained downtown last evening to hear the final returns from the Gans-Nelson fight. Thousands who hung around the bulletin boards went home late rather than miss a word of the reports coming over the wires from the ringside. Never before has such interest been shown in a like event.

Hours before the "pugs" entered the ring crowds of men—not a few women—gathered upon the sidewalks to watch the fight. The men were appropriately early in the morning. While waiting for the fight reports to begin the merits of the scrappers were discussed.

Patriarchs of the business world who have frowned down upon the sporting interest, however, were not so fastidious. Several of the business men were seen to get a hasty glance at the boards. Others deliberately laid aside the worries of trade and settled down to enjoy the spread before them in black and white.

Jostling each other good naturedly they enjoyed themselves. Packed like sardines the wriggling mass struggled for a view of the boards and was loath to miss a sentence of the snappy count of the great fight. Shoulder to shoulder seasoned sports and the uninitiated who could not interpret the phrases in the bulletins stood for over three hours reading the story of the battle of the two human fighting machines.

A dignified person who came to glance at the writing was carried by sheer force of numbers into the heart of a throng intent upon the return. The poor man was horrified to find himself reading about the most famous boxing fight of the century and remained to hear at least five of the rounds.

There were many amusing incidents during the battle. A man named Farmer, which spread with great rapidity kept the crowds at a fever heat of excitement. Several times it was noticed that Nelson was obliged to pause around the block instead of going through the mass of humans intent on the reports. A young automobilist with a special brand of freshness or tap tried to butt his way through one of the largest gatherings. He was promptly called down and narrowly escaped arrest for careless handling of the machine.

There was a riot of excitement in several of the saloons where reports were read and it was almost impossible for the man with the megaphone to make himself heard. This manner of telling the news proved quite unsatisfactory.

On the Broadway side of the Times building the largest crowd of the day watched the stirring account. Packed in a solid blockade men and many women drank in the description of every round. There was a solid jam from curb to curb, and cars and vehicles could pass only with great difficulty before the first returns were received the crowd had overflowed into First street and taken possession of every spot where a view of the long fight could be obtained. Several policemen were detailed to provide a passage for cars, and the crowd always gave way with good grace and stepped from track to track smilingly.

Dressed in a showy white linen suit a burly negro attracted much attention as he bowed into the throng. He carried a huge cane and seemed large enough to have swallowed the white prize fighter had it been necessary. He was a Gans man.

"Dat boy am de berry debbil of a fighter," he announced to a coterie of listeners. "I seed him knock four fellers out one night. He's sure to win." The big negro was said when he saw the reports were called out through a megaphone. He couldn't read a word.

They told him the story and made his black face shine. He canceled with glee as the bulletins showed the headway of Gans, and his face was a study when Nelson stole round "Dat boy, he must win" the old fellow muttered. "He can't lose dis scrap."

A pretty girl with a fetching automobile well tucked under her chin stole a sly glance at the boards. She was so anxious to know how the fight was going, and the account was so mysterious, that she could not refrain from asking a question.

"Gans just upturned him in the state," said a young "newsy" to the timid maid. "He's playing on his wind now, and he can't last much longer. Now they're stallin' and Nelson is buttin' the nigger. The Dane just poked him a hot kick—but this was too much for the young woman and she fled in dismay."

Though streets cars continued to pass and empty seats offered rest to tired and foot-weary watchers, none left until the last word was written. There was a shout for the Bulletin as he railed in the last round, but the crowd generously cheered when Gans was declared a winner.

"Best account of a fight I ever read," "That was a dandy scrap," "Gee wh! but those fellows fought like whirlwinds," "The Pacific Coast at last for the morning paper to read the rest" were some of the many comments after the last bulletin was spread on the boards.

On lower Broadway large crowds also watched the returns and enthusiasm was uncontrolled at intervals. Several interested bystanders gave him a call for a "rough house" in one of the gatherings, but the police soon stopped the impromptu mill.

"I hear the returns where a chance to place wagers on the men offered. Knots of sports enjoyed the story of the great fight in this way and several heavy wagers were placed as late as the twentieth round.

TWO ELIGIBLE. WHO'LL FIGHT GANS? Two lightweights are eligible to meet the winner of yesterday's fight. Kid Herman and Charlie Neary. Herman is the legitimate challenger and should be given the first chance, and the strength of his victory over Eddie Hanlon and Benny Yanger, and his draw with Herrera. The workmanlike manner in which Neary trimmed Herrera gives him a call for a second chance. Jimmy Britt probably chances higher than either of these two men, but as he has been defeated by both Gans and Nelson, he is not a legitimate contender at the present time. Probably as a drawing card he would class far ahead of Herman and Neary on the Pacific Coast at least, but the sports are anxious to see Newman in a go which can test his finishing powers. His battles in Los Angeles have failed to excite much interest, but he could do in a long distance encounter. While he is a trifle underdeclared in weight he is strong, willing, honest and can absorb lots of punishment.

John L. Sullivan, taken as a manager of Neary, is not greatly liked by the veteran has hosts of friends, his name as the "fiscal agent" of the Milwaukee boxer may help the game along, though it would not be a business-like proposition to let the big fellow take hold as Nolan does for Nelson.

Since the successful termination of yesterday's event, Goldfield is fighting and probably will bid for the next championship contest in whatever class a match best can be arranged. The town has won renown and shiekies as a result of the visit of sporting men of the Coast at least, but some time before the desert country recovers its aplomb, but those who have carried the match through to a successful issue, feel confident that more fights would tend to boost the gold country and not only serve to provide a sporting mecca, but bring capital into the country for the development of the great natural resources.

SULLIVAN WINS. MIKE FLOORS DOUGHERTY. (BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.) BUTTE, Sept. 3.—Mike (Twin) Sullivan tonight knocked Jack Dougherty out in the nineteenth round of what was scheduled to be a twenty-round contest for the welterweight championship of the world. Dougherty at no time of the match showed himself to be in Sullivan's class, the latter ripping in telling uppercuts that smothered the face of the Milwaukee lad into ribbons. Dougherty was as gressive enough, but his blows were ill-judged, and his gauging of distance at fault.

During the month there were twenty-one clear days, seven partly cloudy and three cloudy. The highest temperature was 92 deg., on August 14 and the lowest 52 deg. on the 25th,

NOT A STRIKE BUT A SNEAK.

Plans of Carpenters' Union
Reported Changed.

Closed Shop Aimed at, But Contractors Firm.

Labor Day Parade Shows a Totem Weakness.

Today is the day set by the Carpenters' Union for a test of strength between them and the contractors as to whether the contractors shall hire whom they please, or whether the union shall dictate who is to be employed.

The test of strength will not come in the form of a strike, as it is said there will be no strike. But there will be a gradual falling away of the union carpenters from their positions if there is a free workman employed.

The first move along this line came Saturday, when a dozen men employed on a Hope-street building took their tools home with them Saturday, and said they would not come back. Their places were filled and other men were working at the job yesterday.

The Master Builders had an informal meeting yesterday, at which Carl Leonard presided. The belief of the meeting was that the Carpenters' Union, which has been practically abandoned by the other building trades unions, will inaugurate a sort of guerrilla warfare against all jobs where free workmen are employed.

The all-around strike first planned has been abandoned, owing to conditions set forth in these columns a few days ago. The plasterers have practically secured a half-holiday, but without pay.

The bricklayers have also secured the half-holiday, without pay. The contractors have to a certain extent not held out against this concession, since it means only a few hours less work a week, and "the other fellow" loses the money.

The union carpenters say they do not want a half-holiday with pay, and claim they want wages only for the time they work. They ask, however, for an increase in wages that totals up to a week's work that they are not getting, in addition to the half-holiday only another way of getting at it.

The Carpenters' Union has not openly demanded the closed shop, but the campaign mapped out, according to the firm belief of the Master Builders, is one of "sneaking" the non-union workmen and gradually dropping away from the places where free workers are employed.

It was reported yesterday that the Plumbers' Union, which had asked for an advance in wages from $4.50 to $5.50 a day—and a half-holiday—had reached some compromise with the builders, but that the contract would not take effect until the 15th inst. This, however, could not be verified.

The reported intention of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union to tie up work on the several large buildings now in course of construction has fallen flat. That organization could not muster sufficient men yesterday to have a representation in the Labor Day parade.

The weak condition of the totem-treasure in this city, and the failure of the promised support from San Francisco to materials, has been the chief cause of the abandonment of the original strike-and-no-compromise programme voted for early in August.

The day immediately after Labor Day was chosen for the test of strength, as the minimum the totem-treasure would develop was expected to tide them over the first day of the strike.

If every man does not report to his employer this morning the contractors say they will not consider him a striker, but give him one more day to show up. If total inability, superinduced by too much beer, is expected to result in a number of union men not appearing for work.

SMALL TURNOUT.
THREE THOUSAND IN PARADE.

Out of a total of 45,000 wage-earners in Los Angeles and vicinity, 3435 members of labor unions yesterday turned out in a parade over the streets in celebration of Labor Day.

Of this number in line 200 were women and children and about 150 were paid musicians. The union houses promised a turnout of 22,000 union workmen failed to materialize.

The parade was interesting, as it demonstrated that much-discussed question of the numerical strength of the unions in this city. As a fine line was imposed upon any member of a union organization who failed to march, the roster of the union members was about complete in the above total of 3435, minus the 350 non-labor union members who were there.

The 45,000 workmen in this vicinity who do not march in line, remained as a whole at work, owing to the decision of the employers to observe Admission Day, next Monday, instead of Labor Day, as a holiday.

Along the route of the parade about five of the largest buildings now in course of construction are located, and upon all of these the workmen were busy—and they paid slight attention to the passing marchers. At no place along the line did the totemites make any demonstration against the free workmen who were busy.

The line of union members made a long showing, owing to the wide spacing of the platoons of four. In some instances a half dozen of these platoons were stretched the length of a city block.

In addition to this wide spacing of the platoons about half of the organizations in line doubled on their tracks, as it were, and remarched along Spring street, thus giving the effect of a much longer line than was really the fact.

To be specific, the Hod Carriers' Union doubled twice between Fifth and Sixth streets on Spring, as also did the Inside Wiremen, the Linemen, the Electrical Workers of Pasadena, the Machinists and one or two other organizations.

In some instances where the employer company had decided to continue work throughout the day and observe a holiday next Monday, some of the men who are members of the unions remained away from work on various excuses. An interesting and amusing feature of the affair was the shamed-faced and awkward appearance of these fellows when they came face to face with their employers on the streets.

The parade was to have started at 9 o'clock, but owing to a failure of some of the men to appear, the starting was delayed until a few minutes before 10 o'clock, during which time scouts and agents stirred up the laggards and reminded them of the $5 fine to be imposed for absence.

The Carpenters' Union had the largest turnout—1676 carpenters marched.

Among this number were several hundred men who, up to the last few weeks, had been classed as building-trade laborers, but who had been taken into the Carpenters' Union and given cards as skilled workers in order to swell the number in line.

The line of march was up Broadway from Seventh street to Second street, east to Spring, and south to Sixth street, north on Main to Temple, back on Spring to Sixth, and east to Maple avenue.

The parade ended at the site for the union building on Maple avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, where a corner stone was laid. A man by the name of S. B. Wilson delivered the principal address, and about 300 people gathered to hear him.

The majority of the marchers as they approached Maple avenue dismounted and congregated about the several saloons in the vicinity, where they quenched strong thirsts.

In the afternoon at Chutes Park a series of games and sports of a trifling character amused the totemites.

Council Will Order Advertisement for Bids on Outfall Sewer Today.
New License Ordinance Creates
Interest on Petitions of Saloon Applicants.

The hold-over session of the Council, on account of yesterday's session, will be held this afternoon. The Board of Public Works will make its recommendation to the Council that bids be advertised for the completion of the outfall sewer by contract.

The avowed purpose of the City Council to hold contractors Stansbury & Powell responsible for all that the sewer cost over the original contract, and for $55,000 overpaid them for the work completed, will no longer be threshed out in the courts. First the city will exhaust the balance of $225,000 still in the sewer-bond fund, and then will fall back on the security bond of $140,000 given by Stansbury & Powell. Of the latter there will be but $57,000, after deducting the $85,000 overpaid. It will be seen, therefore, that, including the security, there is a sum of $235,000 available to complete the work, and should there be a further excess in the cost of the sewer, suit must be brought against the defaulting contractors to recover it.

If Stansbury & Powell, who seem to be "lying low," have anything up their sleeves involving the city, through some unknown act on the part of any of the city officials, the scandal will probably remain canonical until that time.

LICENSE APPLICATIONS.
MUCH PUBLIC INTEREST.

Considerable interest about the meeting of the Police Commission tonight on account of the signing of the new license ordinance by the Mayor.

The rule requiring two-thirds of the frontage for the granting of a license is practically prohibitive so far as the business and residence sections of the city are concerned, and has won the applause of many people. Some persons are so much opposed to the ordinance that they are ready to sign a petition to the Council to have the ordinance rescinded.

The ordinance applies to the entire city, and there is wide interest as to what effect it will have on applications now on file and others to be presented.

If Kingsbury Wins.
W. S. Kingsbury, chief deputy in the office of the City Engineer, left for the north yesterday to take a peep at the Santa Cruz convention. If he lands the nomination for Surveyor-General he will come home and smilingly tender his resignation to Engineer Hamlin and go into the fight to win. Then the good news will go busy with the question as to who will succeed to the place of Kingsbury. Bridge Deputy Noble and Sewer Deputy Tuttle are already being mentioned for it.

Voters Yet Unregistered.
As an evidence that all the voters of the city have not yet registered, in order to get their names on the Great Register, almost one hundred men made affidavit to their names and addresses at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. But a few days yet remain.

TRIES TO KNIFE OFFICER.
Man Arrested on Burglary Charge
Makes Desperate Attack—Old
Shoes Furnish a Clue.

A pair of old shoes furnished a clue to the discovery of a room half filled with stolen goods taken from room No. 7 in the old Ballerino court, near Alameda street and Nigger alley, yesterday afternoon, and led to the arrest of B. Rodriguez and L. Marin.

When the officers were hurrying Rodriguez and Marin along Marchesault street, the former snatched a fruit knife from a bunch of bananas hanging in front of a store and attacked Patrolman Harrison. After a desperate fight, Rodriguez was overpowered and the knife taken from him.

Mike Lavin, a cripple living in room No. 7, returned to find that the door had been kicked from the hinges and $55 worth of goods stolen. Among the articles was a pair of new patent-leather shoes. In making the exchange the thief had left his house. This Lavin pointed out to the police.

Patrolmen began a search of the surrounding buildings, and found that most of the stolen property was stored in room No. 77. Later the officers located one of the occupants of the room, and afterward the other. But little could be learned from the men after their arrest.

Both men have the reputation in police circles of being desperate.

Don't buy substitutes for MENNEN'S BORATED TALCUM POWDER. "Just as good" is only a deceit by which a dealer tries to make money out of the superiority and success of MENNEN'S POWDER. Marconi Wireless Telegraphy Will Revolutionize the World.

The best invention ever offered the public. We say this without fear of contradiction. Don't wait until it is too late. This is a chance of a lifetime. It is advancing every day. We have some inside information that we know that will make it advance still more rapidly. We have an option on some stock that was purchased when it was very low. We can sell you this stock while it lasts very cheaply. In fact, we consider that it is cheaper today in proportion than it was one year ago. There is not much more of this stock left. When the company made up its books the 1st of January, 1906, they had only 2,900 shares left on its books. We do not think that it will take long to dispose of this. Our method of disposing of this stock gives the party with small means an equal chance. Remember that as soon as you make your first payment from that day you have the benefits of all advances. English Marconi sold recently for over 300 per cent. advance and you cannot get any at that. We have a much larger territory. We can sell you either the American or Canadian. Language Against Radical Bosses.

The character of the labor-union situation that infest Los Angeles has been revealed in a testimonial that will come home to the hearts of the dullest and most brutal of the walking delegates, as well as show them up to the thinking class. If this were all the testimonial, it would be rest content, but the same bears actual proof that the unions are not only held in contempt by the respectable element in Los Angeles, but that they are despised by other unions. Yesterday afternoon, in an out-of-the-way restaurant, a man who is high among the labor-union leaders in Pasadena, and a fac simile of his signature appears herewith, in a two-hour discussion of the situation with a Times reporter, during the course of which he expressed his own opinions and those of his fellow workmen of the labor organizations of Los Angeles. In some instances it is in quotes the exact terms of his publication, but the sentiment is his own.

Ed. L. Haney
Sheet Metal

Mr. Haney's signature, which he wrote on a card for a Times reporter, is reproduced above. He expressed, even after they are translated from the dialect of the laborer, leave no room for doubt as to his point, namely, that the laborers of Pasadena are opposed to the lawless and radical unions of Los Angeles. He expressed his views to the Times reporter, who is a sheet metal worker, and he signed the statements he made by handing the reporter a card which he had produced above.

one to the conference held here, and I was given the job against my will. I came all right, but I couldn't stand it long, and ended up by telling them they'd have to get some one else before the thing was half over. No, I didn't back down to these fellows here. While I was making a speech some bricklayer in the back of the hall started a howl, and they tried to drown me out. There happened to be a couple of fellows there that knew me pretty well and one of them got up and said, 'Boys, you better let Ed Haney have his say, he can lick any five men here, and if he can't, his gun can.' I finished my talk and left the hall, and there wasn't a man there had nerve enough to raise a finger. HURRY THEIR OWN CAUSE.
"Of course," he continued, "out at Pasadena we fellows feel a brotherly interest in seeing the boys win, but we don't think the carpenters have done the wise or the right thing in the present trouble. Do—the man who will strike on his employer without giving notice in time for him to get all his standing contract work done. On Labor Day the city gave us Tournament Park to hold the celebration in and it gave it willingly enough because we've always been 'white' and done the right thing. We believe that the stand we take is the one that will appeal to the reason of both sides of the labor question, and that it's the one that is gaining strength in the union labor ranks and will finally get the upper hand as soon as the radicals like the Los Angeles crowd can be snowed under."
A LOOK AT PASADENA.
"As a test of the way the matter works out, you can take a look at Pasadena labor conditions today and compare them with those of Los Angeles. Pasadena has had few strikes, the plumbers' trouble being the only one of consequence in the past few years. On Labor Day the city gave us Tournament Park to hold the celebration in and it gave it willingly enough because we've always been 'white' and done the right thing. We believe that the stand we take is the one that will appeal to the reason of both sides of the labor question, and that it's the one that is gaining strength in the union labor ranks and will finally get the upper hand as soon as the radicals like the Los Angeles crowd can be snowed under."

He expressed his views on the San Pedro situation. "The sailors' union is a hard proposition to handle," he said. "I won't say that out of the entire organization that extends all over the world and has its branches in every port of consequence that a vessel enters, there aren't 100 good, brainy men to be found, but I will say emphatically that those hundred men, if they exist, aren't at the head of things. The sailors are a tough lot to handle. What is worse under the present state of things they are of a kind of men that are extremely unsuited and therefore, more completely under the influence of their leaders than any other class. There is no doubt whatever that at the bidding of one man the strikers would go back to work at San Pedro without a single word of questioning or complaint. If the one man who controls the situation there would say, 'Boys, it's all up, go back to work,' back they would go to a man, just as they would do his bidding if it was to shoot the first 'scab' that helped to load a boycotted schooner. The trouble is that this man is absolutely radical and will hold out long after there is any hope for success left, and when the only possible result accomplished will be the tying up of commerce at the port of San Pedro, and increased bitterness on both sides."

ENGINEER'S SAD FATE.
Young Man Known Here, Killed by a Snowslide in the Andes Mountains in Chile.
Charles W. Leimer, a young mining engineer well known all over California, met an untimely fate in Chile a few weeks ago, when he was killed in a snowslide in the Andes Mountains.
The deceased was a native of Denver, where his father and mother reside, and only went to Chile in February last, accompanied by his wife, where he was in charge of the Braden copper mill at La Junta. He was but 25 years of age, and in the absence of full particulars it is supposed that he was out on a prospecting trip when caught in the snowslide.
He at one time was superintendent of the mill of the Kings Gold Mines Company, Picoche, Cal., and the Montana Zinc Mining Company's plant, near Butte. Just a week prior to the receipt of the telegram notifying them of his death, his parents had received a letter from him flush with hope for the future.

WORKMEN FALL AMID FIRE.
Narrowly Escape Death When Scaffold Collapses Thirty Feet Above Ground.
In a shower of fire two workmen were thrown from a high scaffold to the ground yesterday. Wonderfully, they escaped death.
H. W. Smith of No. 716 Merchant street and N. Dinkler of No. 1471 1/2 East Third street are the men. They are riveters. They were on a staging thirty feet from the ground, building a tank for the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company. Beside them was a blazing forge with white-hot rivets in it.
The staging collapsed. With white-hot metal and red coals flying about them the men hurtled through the air. Both sustained severe bruises and sprains, but neither were seriously injured. Their hurts were given attention at the Receiving Hospital.

ENGINES READY FOR COLLISION.
Superintendent E. F. Davies, in charge of the Salt Lake Railroad shops here, has announced his readiness to turn over the two locomotives which are to be used in the collision at Agricultural Park on Admission Day. The engines have been in the shops for a week. They came directly from service on the Utah division of the road, and needed slight repairs and new paint. This work has been completed, and the two machines will be sent out to the park probably today. Several trial trips will be made during the week, giving a number of men, whose love of danger and adventure has caused them to ask for the privilege of driving the two locomotives, a chance. The two engineers who are chosen from this number will start the engines, get their speed up to fifty miles an hour or more, and then save themselves by jumping into specially designed net devices.

It Is A Sad Fact
It is a sad fact that people in general know nothing of the food they eat. It is the duty of the physician to awaken them to the necessity of acquainting themselves with the merits of a food and the reputation of its producer. Haphazard productions are not the ones to be trusted, but where science, experience, experiment and research are factors, the result must be meritorious. Under these circumstances we can feel justified in recommending

THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER

The March of the Cooks.

They come and go in endless files.

They've come and gone those dozen years.

They've brought a million happy smiles.

They've caused a billion bitter tears.

And still they come and still they go.

They come by night, they come by day.

Yet all the time full well we know.

By day or night they'll go away.

Brigid, Martha and Matilda.

Liza, Sophie, Hannah Jane.

Molly, Lena, Helen, Hilda.

Rose, May and endless train.

Pearl, Katrina, Lillie, Anna.

Still they go and still they come.

From old Denmark, Savannah.

Changing ad infinitum.

We gaze down the misty past.

And see the army of the cooks.

How huge, how mighty and how vast.

The stern and stolid column looks.

And each has brought in happiness.

And each has brought in grief and pain.

And each in turn has hurried distress.

Upon our heads and caused us grief.

Beisy, Ellen, Susie, Sadie.

Jennie, Etta, Midge and Pearl.

Saying: "I'm a perfect lady."

Though I am a servant girl.

Four nights out of five I'm always.

Washing? I can't think of it!

What? I'll have to sweep the hallways!

Never, mum! I'll have to quit."

And memory brings up as well.

The roasts that blinding they have.

The pies and puddings—who can tell.

How many thousands have been.

spoiled?

Hark! From the kitchen come her tones:

"I'll have to leave you, mum, this time."

And one more heart in sorrow moans.

The madness that no tongue can.

Speak.

Sarah, Getchen, Grace and Lizzie.

One by one they've come and gone.

Counting their husbands, one dizzy.

As they hurry on and on.

What the good of social science.

The helplessness of books?

Forward breathes the fierce defiance.

Goes the army of the cooks.

Agreed With Her.

After giving her husband a piece of her mind, the woman sits and glares at him, and regains her breath. She replies:

"And every one of my friends told me I would be unhappy if I married

you. Every one of them. They told me and told me and told me that people should always marry opposites."

To her astonishment, the humble wretch, her husband, straightens up and flashes at her a defiant look.

Before she can rebuke him, he says:

"I wish I had married your opposite,

anyhow."

HUMOR OF THE WORLD.

FROM GERMANY.

Debtor to his shoemaker, who has called with his little bill: Your birthday today is it? Well, may you live long, my friend, and get your money from me.—[Filegunde Blatter.]

Actor (describing his benefit): Such enthusiasm I have never seen! Not only did the young men take the horses out of my carriage, but they were all summoning for exceeding the speed limit.—[Filegunde Blatter.]

Uncle: I can't listen to you now. This evening in your room I will hear what you have to say.—[Filegunde Blatter.]

Nephew: But why waste so much gas,

uncle?—[Filegunde Blatter.]

She: Our whole income I brought

you. Tell me what you will do; do before you married me.—[Filegunde

Blatter.]

Schroeder (to his neighbor, a widower): Will you send your housekeeper away, since she was such a good cook?—[Filegunde Blatter.]

The widower: She made such splendid puddings. I was afraid I should marry her.—[Filegunde Blatter.]

Box Office Clerk: Well, Herr Maier,

do you want to see the new play?

Herr M.: Have you a fairly good one for this evening for my mother-in-law?

She is rather hard of hearing.—

B. O. C.: Here, Herr M.: Will do; she won't see much there, either.—[Megendorfer Blatter.]

Father (who has just divorced his wife, to his little daughter): Whom will you rather live with, mamma or me?—[Megendorfer Blatter.]

Daughter: Oh, with mamma; I shall soon get another papa.—[Megendorfer

Blatter.]

"I won't take the portrait, and I won't pay for it; it isn't the least like me.

In this picture I look exactly like my grandfather.—[Megendorfer Blatter.]

"Then won't you ask your grandfather to take it?"—[Megendorfer

Blatter.]

Husband: I see in the paper, Emily, that a man has been fined twenty marks for kissing the servant.

Wife: I wonder how his wife allowed him to do such a thing?—[Megendorfer

Blatter.]

Elderly Spinster: During my last illness I was two days unconscious, so

I can take that off my conscience.—

[Megendorfer Blatter.]

Magistrate (to poacher): You are accused of stealing game; have you any thing to say in your defense?

Poacher: Your worship, my wife was unfortunately a cook with wealthy families, and she knows how to cook things like that.—[Megendorfer

Blatter.]

Solicitor: You want to get a divorce from your wife because she cooks so badly? Surely that isn't sufficient reason?—[Megendorfer Blatter.]

Husband: Well, may I invite you to another day?—[Megendorfer Blatter.]

First Lady: Do you recommend

Rugby?

Second Lady: Oh, yes; it's a splendid game. I have got engaged every time

I have been there.—[Megendorfer

Blatter.]

"Arthur, just think! Mamma said today she was going to visit me. I will tell her to put on her things

now, and I'll drive her to the place."

[Lustige Blatter.]

The Council of a small Jewish community found it necessary to make new cemetery, and having fixed on a site, agreed that they would all go on a certain day to inspect it, and would assemble first of all in the chapel. As the day was very warm, they left their coats, etc., in the chapel.

BRUIN BITES UNLUCKY BOY.

ALMOST FATAL ACCIDENT AT URBITA SPRINGS.

San Bernardino Couple Is Gored by Fierce Grip of Paws and Caught by Fiercely Quadruped Sink Into Flashes—Early Arrival of Rescue Prevents Further Harm.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. BERNARDINO, Sept. 3.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Robin Garner, a Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Garner, residents of this city, had a very close escape from being mangled by a vicious black bear at Urbita Springs today.

He was knocked down and severely bitten on the back of the head when the bear was dragged away by a keeper. The boy had just been over near the tree to which the bear was chained, when the animal suddenly grabbed the child by the neck and drew him toward the tree. With a furious roar the bear came at its haunches, holding the boy between its paws.

The child struggled and fell, with his hands standing upon the prostrate bear. The animal made an attempt to take the child's face within its jaws when the boy suddenly turned and ran. The bear sank its teeth into the back of the child's head.

Before further injury could be inflicted the keeper arrived and dragged the bear off. Dr. C. D. Dickey found it necessary to take several stitches to close the wounds. On the boy's head a large laceration where the bear's paw was upon his body.

OIL SCATTERED BY FIREBUG.

HUNTINGTON BEACH WOMAN INTENDED VICTIM.

Supposed Guilty Man Is Seen Stealing Toward Place in Night and Watching Officers Pursue and Take a Shot at Him, But Without Apparent Wounding.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 3.—Oil poured about the restaurant of Mrs. Bell Allen last night gives rise to the suspicion that a firebug was at work. The oil was scattered in the vicinity of the restaurant, and a watch was kept in the vicinity.

Not far from 1 o'clock this morning a man was seen stealing toward the place. The officers pursued him and took a shot at him, but he eluded them. The man is described as wearing a dark suit, a slouch hat and shoes so large that they impeded his movements. He was seen to walk backward when running.

Only a few weeks ago Mrs. Allen was alleged to have been a victim of a firebug, who entered the room where she was sleeping.

BELL IS BEATEN IN THE NORTH.

SOUTHERN TENNIS PLAYERS FAIL TO WIN.

Yesterday's Play in the Pacific Coast Championship Tournament Results in an Almost Clean Sweep for the Northern Warriors of the Racquet-Ladies Events for Today.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Play in the Pacific Coast championship tennis tournament today resulted in an almost clean sweep for Northern California players. Only one of the Southern California contingent succeeded in reaching the semi-final round of singles.

The four successful players were: T. Bundy of Southern California; Chas. Foley and Clarence Griffin of the Golden Gate Tennis club, and Melville Long of the California Tennis Club. The play developed some of the best tennis seen in championship tournaments in some years.

The surprise of the day came in the defeat of A. E. Bell of Southern California by Melville Long, who will compete tomorrow in the junior singles. Bell did not play the same game he did two years ago, while Long was in better form than he has shown for some time. The latter used his chop strokes to good advantage, and was in the lead continually after Bell had taken the first set.

Herbert Schmidt and Charles Foley played the best tennis of the day. Foley won in straight sets, but only after playing the hardest kind of uphill battle. Schmidt went into the lead at 5-3 in the first set, but Foley gradually pulled up, and after a long saw-saw, the set was won by 10-3. Schmidt led at 3-2 in the second set, and Foley finally won by a 6-4 score. The scores of the day's play follow:

Foley beat S. Seymour, 6-3, 6-2. A. E. Bell beat Shank, 6-1, 6-2. M. Long beat R. Nicholson, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.

Bundy beat H. Rolfe, 7-5, 6-4. G. Busch beat S. Gayness, 6-3, 6-2. C. Griffin beat R. Drolla, 6-1, 6-4. F. Elliott beat Donnell by default.

Second round: Foley beat Schmidt, 10-3, 6-4. M. Long beat Bell, 6-2, 6-4. Bundy beat Busch, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1. Griffin beat Elliott, 6-3, 6-2.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the playing of the ladies' event. The draw resulted thus: Ladies' singles, preliminary round: Miss Carland vs. Mrs. Bruce, Miss Peralta vs. Miss Volleau, Miss Dobbins vs. Miss Seymour. First round: Miss Hotchkiss vs. Miss Meyer, Mrs. Seymour vs. Miss Jones vs. Miss Talbot, Ladies' doubles, preliminary round: Miss Volleau and Miss Jones vs. Mrs. Seymour and Miss Peralta. First round: Mrs. Dobbins and Mrs. Bruce vs. Miss Talbot and Miss Hotchkiss, and Miss Seymour and Miss Peralta.

POISON IVY FATTENS 'EM.

Ex-Congressman Scudder Says Angoras Like It.

How Easterners Get Rid of a Tenacious Pest.

May Open Up a Bright Future for "Billies."

BROOKLYN (N. Y.) Aug. 28.—The Eagle says that Ex-Congressman Townsend Scudder, who has a fine country seat between Roslyn and Sea Cliff, is not going to be troubled about doctor's remedies for poison ivy, for he has seventy Angora goats sent from Maine, and the goats are warranted to exterminate poison ivy along with all other troublesome growths.

It has been generally known that goats and ostriches can live and thrive on nine-tenths of rejected food supplies, but it is not generally known that the best way of dealing with poison ivy is at the fountain head, and Angora goats are being extensively used on large estates for this purpose.

Mr. Scudder has long stretches of meadow and woodland, with intersecting lanes and roads leading to the Sea Cliff. The luxuriance of every green and growing thing requires scavengers of the goat order, and when the little army of Angoras have foraged for a few weeks the thickets will be cleared, fences denuded of their poisonous draperies, and an Eden will take the place of wilderness.

An amusing incident of preliminaries regarding the sending of the goats to Mr. Scudder's farm was the mailing of samples of the long silken hair, to prove the breed, but the Angoras arrived all shorn for duty in the scrubby growth they were to forage in.

The attention of farmers all over the country was some time ago attracted by a pamphlet sent out by the Bureau of Agriculture, in which the value of the fleece was stated to be in some instances $5 a pound, although $2 a pound is an average price.

Raising Angoras for profit is, however, a business requiring certain conditions and special intelligence, as well as capital, and whatever the value of them in other ways, they are certainly an acquisition to an estate, whose owner has objectionable growths, such as the prolific and tenacious poison ivy, which seems to be ordinary and wholesome diet for these handsome foragers. They will eat anything they can reach standing on their hind feet, as well as on all fours, and they thrive on ranges where sheep would starve.

They have better natures and manners than the common goat and are beloved by children, and the disagreeable odor of the ordinary kind is also lacking.

The fleece is so long and so silken one hesitates to believe that they can be put to any task like clearing scrubby growths, but they open a safe passage, assisted by their omnivorous appetites.

A New Hampshire man is said to have had 200 acres cleared by his Angoras in four years. When the choice between using manual labor with the noise of cutting, for the disposition of refuse, and the silent, ceaseless clearing of these beautiful creatures, is considered, one wonders why there is not a herd of them on all the big estates, which have had such vast amounts of clearance, necessitating the employment of an army of men.

To keep Mr. Scudder's herd of Angoras within bounds he is having a 10,000 foot inclosure built. Already they have made five openings in the dense undergrowth, and incidentally they destroy all poisonous vines, for they eat everything in their way, and so close that once cleared there is small chance with a herd of Angoras ready for future emergencies of further trouble.

We Cure Catarrh, Deafness, Ear Noises, Asthma, Throat, Lung and Blood Diseases.

If you are a sufferer from catarrh, deafness, ear noises, asthma, bronchitis, etc., you naturally want the most expert specialists to treat your case. You do not want to trust your health to the hands of amateurs. You feel that the best is none too good for you.

We believe so. The Los Angeles Medical Institute, situated on the fourth floor of the Remick building, No. 517 South Broadway, stands the test of time. We have been here for nearly three years, and today have the largest practice on the coast. Advertising alone would not give us the business we are now doing. If we give better service at lower cost than any other specialist, we shall secure, by perfectly logical and common sense methods, what is virtually a franchise from the public to treat all cases of catarrh troubles. A franchise based upon public approval and preference is stronger and more enduring than can be secured by legislative enactment, and it is this sort of a franchise obtained in this way that we have earned and propose to keep. THE FUTURE OF Marconi Wireless Telegraphy Is Greater than the Telephone Marconi Wireless Telegraphy is now a household word. It has sixty land stations, is in operation on every three masted ship and is being used by the U. S. Navy. The parent Marconi company is selling for many thousands of dollars the rights to the younger American company, because it has a larger field for operation and that it is cheaper. FIRST HONORS FOR THE AUK.

American Yachts Lead for Roosevelt Cup.
Only One German Boat Shows to Advantage.

To Leeward or Windward and Return Today.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
MARLBOROUGH (Mass.) Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first of the series between the German and American yachts for the Roosevelt cup was sailed off here today in a stiff southerly breeze, and, contrary to general expectations, the Auk, owned by Charles Francis Adams, won by a handsome margin.

The Vim, owned by Commodore T. L. Park of the American Yacht Club, New York, was second, while the only German yacht that showed to advantage was the Waimese, 58½ feet, 12m. and 20s. behind the Auk. The Caramba was fourth, the Tilly VI was fifth and the Gluchauf last.

The race was sailed twice around a triangular course, the first leg being a beat to windward. The Auk, which has heretofore been considered only a light-sailing vessel, surprised by speed today, and the contest developed into a duel between the Adams boat and the Vim for first place.

Going to windward for the first time, the Vim held the lead till close to the turning mark, when the Auk slipped in and rounded to first place a position she did not surrender till the finish.

On the second and third legs, which were broad reaches, the Auk ran away from the Vim and had the lead the first time around the course of 1m. 22s. On the second beat to windward, the Vim gained 50s. on the Auk, but the latter simply ran away from her rival when the sheets were started for the two final legs.

The showing of the German yachts was rather disappointing, as it was confidently asserted by their skippers that today's conditions were just what their boats required. The Waimese sailed fairly well, but in tumbling seas and in the increasing wind, was no match for either the Auk or the Vim.

The Germans said if they could not win under today's conditions, the Roosevelt cup will stay in America.

Monte Cristi IS BESEIGED.
(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
PUERTO PLATA (San Domingo) Sept. 3.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The situation at Monte Cristi is unchanged. The rebels are besieging the town, and hold the ferry and aqueduct. They are apparently well supplied with ammunition. Gov. Limardo's forces are inadequate to operate against the enemy, and are awaiting reinforcements. There have been a few unimportant skirmishes. Gen. Jose Jesus Alvarez and others have been arrested in Santiago.

Western Association Golf.
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—The Western Association golf team, captained by H. Chandler Egan, former national and present western champion, won the Olympic Cup team championship today on the course of the Glen Echo Country Club with a total of 63 strokes.

Socorro's Tumbler.
Mr. Drake had something to say about the recent earthquake in Socorro, the published accounts of which appear to have been considerably overdrawn. No building in the city was thrown down, and not the slightest injury was done to any person. Twenty chimneys fell, and the walls of some old adobe buildings were cracked, but no substantial damage was done. The inhabitants were alarmed by the tremor, and for a few days many of them camped out, fearing severe shocks. Stories of volcanic activity in the mountains were pure fiction.

Prominent Speakers.
The address of welcome, today, was made by Mayor Drullman of Santa Cruz, and J. W. Lincoff of this city gave greetings to the Fremonters. In his biennial address, President Rule reviewed the work of the organization since the convention today, when veterans of the Mexican, Civil and Spanish-American Wars are to be honored and the business of the organization is to be completed.
